

Work + Family Researchers Network

See below for the Zoom chat log from the 9/16/2021 WFRN event titled Conversations about Covid-19 & Work-Family Around the Globe

Chat Log

00:13:30 Stephen Sweet: To submit papers to the WFRN's June 23-25, 2022 conference in New York City follow this link <https://wfrn.org/wfrn-2022-conference/>. Hope to see you there!

00:15:47 Clarice Santos: Yes

00:21:55 Marissa Oliver: Everyone please mute!

00:25:31 Marissa Oliver: So interesting! Thank you Brendan!

00:25:55 Brigid Schulte (she, her, hers): So interesting! Thanks Brendan!

00:26:09 Jessica Mackelprang: Thanks Brendan 🙌 Interesting and important work.

00:36:55 Melissa Milkie: that is amazing data!

00:37:03 Yue Qian: Amazing!

00:37:20 Deniz Yucel: It is great. Thank you!

00:38:22 Brigid Schulte (she, her, hers): Wow - thanks Melissa and Leah - fantastic, as always!

00:38:38 Sarah Johal: Have your book!

00:38:50 Leah Ruppanner: <https://osf.io/zeqrj/>

00:39:08 Marissa Oliver: Awesome research, data, AND powerpoint designs! Thanks Leah & Melissa

00:40:08 Stephen Sweet: Congratulations on your book Leah! Send us the information on it and we will post it to the WFRN's News/Research Feed. Wonderful presentation Melissa and Leah.

00:41:46 Leah Ruppanner: Thanks for the love y'all!! Wonderful to get to work with Melissa and her fantastic team. Here is a link to my book: <http://tupress.temple.edu/book/20000000009939>

00:49:15 Marissa Oliver: Thank you Nobuko for sharing your work, fascinating!

00:57:04 Deniz Yucel: Great presentation!

00:57:13 Sylvia Fuller: Great presentation Yue!

00:57:26 Wen Fan: Impressive Yue!

00:57:32 Yue Qian: Thank you Deniz and Sylvia and Wen!

01:16:26 Deniz Yucel: Thank you for all these great presentations!

01:18:04 Clarice Santos: Thank you all for sharing your research - great presentations! And thanks WFRN!

01:18:05 Sylvia Fuller: Have to leave to deal with childcare! Thanks to everyone for such interesting presentations.

01:18:37 Brigid Schulte (she, her, hers): 100 percent

01:26:37 Brigid Schulte (she, her, hers): I totally agree with the frustration on the media shaping the narrative. As a trained journalist - you have to understand - 3 people is a trend. Look at the stories - that tends to be the pattern. 3 similar stories with 1 slightly different one

01:29:51 Melissa Milkie: Thanks for the journalist context Brigid

01:33:25 Brigid Schulte (she, her, hers): Interesting, I listened in to the APA's Work, Stress & Health conference this week - there's similar interesting discussions about what they're calling "work" and "non-work" because researchers are really understanding that family IS different than personal life

01:34:47 Scott Schieman: Absolutely. And what do we define as "needs"? What counts?

01:36:06 Tammy Allen: Thanks to the organizers and speakers for such an interesting discussion.

01:36:53 Brigid Schulte (she, her, hers): I wonder how that sense of satisfaction changes depending on country policy context. I imagine gig workers with access to universal health care and other benefits may feel gig work is an acceptable choice vs. in the U.S., with no portable benefits

01:37:24 Laura Pineault: I am curious if any panelists have on socioeconomic status and specifically, the “amount of available living space” on satisfaction and preferences for continued WFHv

01:37:30 Melissa Milkie: yes, very true Brigid

01:37:32 Brendan Churchill: I agree Brigid - more cross-national research is in this area needed.

01:37:58 Sarah A Damaske: Agreed. Alexandra Ravenelle has new work out on gig work in US context during pandemic that is a bit pessimistic, Brigid.

01:38:30 Melissa Milkie: parents want space to work at home -- this works IF kids are at school or in care only

01:39:05 Ariane Ollier-Malaterre: Thank you very much WFRN and panelists!

01:39:11 Leah Ruppanner: Yue, we just published this article

01:39:12 Leah Ruppanner:
<https://www.tandfonline.com/doi/abs/10.1080/21620555.2021.1944081>

01:39:19 Leah Ruppanner: May be of interest to you about housework in China

01:39:22 Deniz Yucel: Thank you for thjis discussion and the panelists!

01:39:23 Anju Philip: Thank you everyone!

01:39:25 Leah Ruppanner: and the role of parents

01:39:27 Brendan Churchill: Thanks everyone :) Thanks to the organisers :)

01:39:50 Stephen Sweet: Great job to everyone!!!!

01:39:58 Christin Landivar: Thank you for the great presentations and discussion.

01:40:11 Krista Minnotte: Thanks for an AMAZING set of presentations and a rich discussion!

01:40:21 Lakshita Bhagat: Thanks for putting together this wonderful panel!

01:41:26 Leah Ruppanner: Gotta go to another meeting!! Thanks for organizing!!

01:41:49 Melissa Milkie: back part time or days

01:41:53 Melissa Milkie: not 40 hours

01:42:14 Laura Pineault: Exactly! Especially what we know from Sonnetag and Shockley’s work on separation and having a “door that closes”.

01:42:52 Ipshita Pal: Thank you everyone! Very thought-provoking!

01:42:54 Brigid Schulte (she, her, hers): Thanks for all these wonderful presentations! So grateful for your work and research!

01:42:59 Yue Qian: Thank you so much for organizing it, for all the great presentations, and for coming!!

01:43:07 Lauren Ryan: Thanks so much for a super interesting event.

01:43:13 Michael Bator: Thank you!!