For over a decade, WFRN has served as a multidisciplinary hub for work-family scholars and practitioners across the globe. A Founding WFRN member, I served on the initial Steering Committee that was convened in 2011 as WFRN became a reality. It's been inspiring to witness the seeds planted over a decade ago take root and continue to grow and flourish and it would be an honor to serve on the Executive Board as a Member-at-Large. I have been conducting research on work-family issues since the 1990s. The work that we do can have real meaning for individuals and for society and there is so much more work to do! I am a Fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, Academy of Management, American Psychological Association, Association for Psychological Science, and Society for Industrial and Organizational Psychology. In 2022, I had the good fortune to be awarded the WFRN Ellen Galinsky Generative Researchers Award. I aim to bring my record of work-family scholarship, science advocacy, collaborative partnership, prior leadership experience in other professional societies, and love of the field to help advance WFRN strategic goals and initiatives.
