WFRN has offered the ideal site for my scholarship, research and practice. I have started my association with WFRN from 2014 attending the conference in New York. I found a community that was interdisciplinary and working along the same continuum of social change as me; which was a wonderful experience. This is an important site for my professional growth and academic thinking. I look forward to all opportunities for building a deeper engagement with our WFRN group and contributing to its ongoing successes.
